IX. OPINION OF EDWARD EVERETT.

"There is every respect a unique volume, for there is no other which covers the same ground, and it has company to no other object in the library."—John C. Frémont.

"It is written in an unpretentious style. The heavy paper is delicately tinted, the printing is in Mr. Alford's best manner, and graceful illustrations accompany the text."

The book is now quite opportune. "We feel that it will be a valuable addition to any library, and we sincerely trust that it will be well received."

"We are also subscribing the interest of patriotism when we invite attention to this beautiful volume."
